Google changes menu names from time to time. If a button has moved, search Google's Business Profile Help for the step name.

How to use this kit

Day	Do this (about 30 minutes)	Page
Day 1	Claim or verify your profile. Fix name, category, phone and service area.	3–4
Day 2	Add every service, your hours, booking link and description.	4
Day 3	Upload 10+ real photos. Get your review link and QR code.	4–5
Day 4	Make your list of recent customers. Send the first review requests.	5–6
Day 5	Reply to every existing review using the templates.	7
Day 6	Schedule week 1 of your Google posts.	8
Day 7	Claim your other free listings so details match everywhere.	9

Honest expectations: nobody can guarantee a ranking. Google ranks local results mainly by how relevant, how close and how well known (prominent) a business is. This kit fixes the parts you control: a complete, accurate profile, steady reviews and regular activity. Results depend on your market, your service and how many customers you ask.

The 3 rules that keep you safe

- [ ] Ask every customer for a review, not just the happy ones. Asking only happy customers ("review gating") breaks Google's rules.
- [ ] Never offer anything for a review: no discounts, gifts, or entries into a giveaway. Google treats this as fake engagement, and the FTC's rule on consumer reviews (in effect since October 21, 2024) bans buying reviews.
- [ ] Never write reviews for yourself, or ask family or staff to review your business.

Part 1 · Profile setup checklist

Open business.google.com (or search your business name on Google while signed in and click "Edit profile").

Ownership

- [ ] Profile is claimed and verified (unverified profiles can't use most features).
- [ ] You know which Google account owns it. Write it here: _____
- [ ] Add a second owner or manager you trust, so you're never locked out.

Name, category and contact

- [ ] Business name matches your sign, invoices and website exactly. Don't add keywords or cities (for example, not "Sparkle Clean | Best House Cleaning Marietta"). Google's guidelines don't allow it and it can get a profile suspended.
- [ ] Primary category is the most specific one that fits, e.g. "House cleaning service" rather than just "Cleaning service". Add secondary categories only for services you really offer (e.g. "Commercial cleaning service", "Carpet cleaning service").
- [ ] Phone is the number you actually answer or text back from.
- [ ] Website or booking page link is added.

Location and service area

- [ ] If customers don't come to you, set it up as a service-area business: hide your street address and add the towns or ZIP codes you serve.
- [ ] Service areas match where you really work. Don't list places you won't travel to.

Hours

- [ ] Regular hours are set to when you answer calls and messages.
- [ ] Holiday hours are added before each holiday.

Part 1 · Services, description, photos

Services (people search for the specific job)

- [ ] Add each service on its own line: standard cleaning, deep cleaning, move-in/move-out, recurring weekly/biweekly, post-construction, Airbnb turnover, office cleaning (only what you do).
- [ ] Write one plain sentence for each: what's included and who it's for.
- [ ] Add a starting price only if you're comfortable showing one.

Business description (up to 750 characters)

Fill in: [Business name] is a [owner-run / family-owned] [house cleaning] business serving [Town 1], [Town 2] and [Town 3]. We offer [service 1], [service 2] and [service 3]. [One true thing that sets you apart: insured, eco-friendly products, same cleaner every visit, X years in business]. Request a quote at [link] or text [phone].

Keep it factual. Don't add links, prices you can't honor, or claims like "#1" or "best" unless you can prove them.

Photos

- [ ] Logo (square) and a cover photo.
- [ ] 10 or more photos of real work: before-and-afters from the same angle, your team, your vehicle, your supplies. No stock photos.
- [ ] Add 2–4 new photos every month so the profile looks active.
- [ ] Get permission before photographing a client's home, and leave out personal items and house numbers.

Extras worth turning on

- [ ] Booking or appointment link (your quote form or booking software).
- [ ] Messaging or chat, only if you'll answer quickly.
- [ ] Attributes that are true for you (e.g. "Online estimates", "Women-owned").
- [ ] Opening date, so your years in business show.

Part 2 · 10 reviews in 30 days

The goal is 10 new honest reviews in 30 days. Most people don't leave reviews unless they're asked, so the system below is about asking every customer, quickly and politely.

Step 1 · Get your review link and QR code

- [ ] On a computer, open your profile → Read reviews → Get more reviews. Copy the link and download the QR code. (Google currently lets you create the QR code from a computer browser.)
- [ ] Save the link as a text shortcut on your phone, e.g. typing "rvw" pastes it.
- [ ] Print the QR code on the card on page 11.

Step 2 · Make your list

- [ ] Write down every customer you've served in the last 6 months (name, phone or email, date of last clean) on the tracker, page 12. Everyone goes on the list.

Step 3 · Ask on this schedule

When	Who	Message
Days 1–3	Everyone on your list (10 a day)	Past-customer text, page 6
Every job, within 24 hours	That customer	After-the-job text or email, page 6
3 days later	Anyone who hasn't reviewed	One friendly reminder, then stop
Every Friday	You	Count new reviews; reply to all of them

Don't: ask people to mention specific words, services or your cleaner's name; ask only customers who seem happy; offer a discount or entry into a giveaway; or stand over someone while they write it. Just ask for an honest review.

Part 2 · Review-request messages

Past customers (text)

Hi [Name], it's [Your name] from [Business]. Thank you again for having us at your home. If you have a minute, an honest Google review really helps a small business like mine: [link]. Thank you either way!

After every job (text, same day or next day)

Hi [Name], thanks for having us today! If you have a minute, would you leave an honest review on Google? [link] It really helps local people find a cleaner they can trust.

After every job (email)

Subject: Thank you from [Business]

Hi [Name],

Thank you for having us at your home on [day]. If you have a minute, an honest review on Google helps other families in [Town] find us: [link]

If anything wasn't right, just reply to this email and I'll make it right.

[Your name]
[Business] · [phone]

The last line invites feedback from everyone. That's fine. What's not allowed is sending only happy customers to Google and keeping unhappy ones away.

One reminder (3 days later, then stop)

Hi [Name], just a quick reminder in case it got buried. Here's the link if you'd like to share your experience: [link]. No worries at all if not!

Part 3 · Replying to reviews

Reply to every review within 2 business days. Future customers read your replies. Never share private details (addresses, schedules, what was in someone's home).

5 stars

> Thank you, [first name]! We loved helping with your [move-out / deep clean]. See you next time!

4 stars

> Thank you for the kind review, [first name]! If there's anything we could do even better next time, we'd love to hear it. Just reply to our last text.

Mixed (2–3 stars)

> Thank you for the honest feedback, [first name]. I'm sorry [the issue] wasn't what you expected. I'd like to make it right. Please call or text me at [phone].

1 star, real customer

> [First name], I'm sorry about your experience. This isn't the standard we hold ourselves to. I've reached out by [text/email] and would like the chance to fix it.

Stay calm, short and factual. Don't argue in public. Offer to fix it, and move the conversation to text or phone.

Not a customer, or breaks the rules

> We can't find any record of working with you, but we take every review seriously. Please contact us at [phone] so we can look into it.

Then report it: open the review → the three dots (⋮) → Report review → pick the reason. Google removes reviews that break its policies. Reporting doesn't guarantee removal, so always post a calm reply.

Part 4 · 4-week Google posts calendar

Two posts a week. Each one gets a real photo from that week. Posts make your profile look active and answer common questions before people call.

Week	Post 1 (photo idea + text)	Post 2 (photo idea + text)
1	Before-and-after kitchen. "Kitchen deep clean in [Town] this week: degreased cabinets, cleaned inside the microwave, and wiped baseboards. Request a quote: [link]"	You or your team, smiling. "Meet [name], the owner of [Business]. We clean homes in [towns]. [One true detail: insured / same cleaner every visit]."
2	Bathroom after. "What's included in our standard clean: [list 4 things]. Need a deep clean instead? Text [phone]."	Supplies you use. "The products we bring to every home: [list]. Have a pet or allergy? Tell us when you book."
3	Empty room after a move-out. "Moving? Our move-out clean covers [inside cabinets, appliances, baseboards]. Book 1–2 weeks ahead: [link]"	Screenshot of a real review (with permission, first name only). "Thank you, [first name]! Reviews like this mean the world to a small business."
4	A checklist on a clipboard. "Recurring cleaning: weekly, every 2 weeks or monthly. Same checklist every visit. Ask about a recurring spot: [link]"	Seasonal photo. "Getting ready for [holiday/season]? We're booking [month] cleans in [towns] now: [link]" (only if it's true)

> Only post real offers with real end dates. Don't post "limited spots" unless it's true.

After week 4

Repeat the same 8 ideas with new photos. Keep a folder on your phone called "Google posts" and drop 2 good photos into it every week.

Part 5 · Listings & AI-search checklist

Search engines, map apps and AI assistants pull your details from many places. When they all match, they're more confident about recommending you. Use the exact same business name, phone number, website and service area everywhere.

Free listings to claim

- [ ] Google Business Profile (done in Part 1).
- [ ] Apple Business Connect: claim your place card so you show correctly on Apple Maps. Free; you need an Apple ID.
- [ ] Bing Places for Business: free, and it can import your Google profile, which saves time.
- [ ] Nextdoor Business Page: free. Neighbors can recommend local businesses there.
- [ ] Facebook Business Page: free; add services, hours and your booking link.
- [ ] Yelp for Business: free basic page; claim it so you can reply to reviews.

Make your business easy to understand

- [ ] Your website (or booking page) lists each service and each town you serve, in plain words.
- [ ] Your Instagram bio says what you do, where, and how to book.
- [ ] Your phone number is written the same way everywhere.
- [ ] Answer the questions customers ask most (pricing range, supplies, pets, cancellations) on your website or in a pinned post.

> No one outside Google, Apple or the AI companies knows exactly how they choose businesses. These steps help any search tool understand you; they don't guarantee placement.

Weekly 15-minute routine

When	Task	Done
Monday	Post 1 of the week with a real photo
Thursday	Post 2 of the week
After every job	Send the review request within 24 hours
Friday	Reply to every new review; send reminders (once); count reviews on the tracker
Last Friday of the month	Add 2–4 new photos; check hours, services and holiday hours; look at Performance (calls, website clicks, directions)

Monthly numbers to write down

Month	Total reviews	New reviews	Calls from Google	Website clicks	Profile views

Find these in your profile under Performance.

Printable review card

Print, cut out and leave one on the counter after each clean. Paste your QR code into the square (or print your QR code and tape it on).
